

Just a brief update on my cancer situation....

It was originally thought that I had small cell lung cancer, a fast moving and persistent form of cancer. But following a brain scan (negative – no cancer, there may still be some grey matter left!) and a PET scan of my entire body, it seems I may not have lung cancer after all. So this Friday, the 6th, I am off to see an oncologist at Johns Hopkins Hospital to see what he thinks is going on. So stay tuned. There is cancer in the lymph nodes, however.

For those that may be interested, you can follow what is going on by going to www.caringbridge.org and joining and then my blog may be found under JimMcDonald2. CaringBridge will send you an email whenever I add something to my journal.

Keep those good vibes and prayers coming,

Jim